School Name: San Juan College
Position: Dean of Health Sciences

COLLEGE OVERVIEW:

Located in Farmington New Mexico, San Juan College serves as a regional leader in education. One of the largest two-year comprehensive community colleges in New Mexico, it ranks fifth in enrollment among all two- and four-year colleges in the state. The college provides quality education to more than 10,000 students in credit programs annually. San Juan College has four campuses throughout the area, which include the main Farmington Campus; San Juan College 30th Street Campus, also located in Farmington; San Juan College East in Aztec, New Mexico; and San Juan College West, in Kirtland, New Mexico.

Dedicated to student success and completion, San Juan College offers innovative, challenging and affordable academic programs. Through online and face-to-face classes, students can choose from hundreds of two-year degree and certificate programs, non-credit community learning classes, and workforce training. In addition, the college partners with state universities to offer both bachelor's and master's degrees on campus. San Juan College is accredited through the Higher Learning Commission.

History

San Juan College was founded in 1956 as the Farmington Branch of the New Mexico College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts, in accordance with statutes of the State of New Mexico. The college became an independent community college in 1982.

From its modest start in 1956 with 25 students, the College now has a credit enrollment of approximately 18,000 students per year, with more than 1,100 of these being in the health sciences programs. Staff size has grown from a handful of part-time instructors to approximately 900 people. The College supports a wide variety of instructional and support activities for academic transfer, career education, and noncredit learning activities.
